How Shall We Show what Virginia Has?

Everything indicates that there will be a very large crowd of people at the Yorktown Centennial. Whether they come from this country or Europe they will all visit Richmond. For nothing else, because it is the capital of the Confederacy. Not a few of them will combine business with pleasure. They will ask us what we have in Virginia to invite capital. It will not satisfy them if we answer the question in a general way. Businessmen, whether capitalists or not, want no general statements about anything; they want particulars, and they will have them, and will go to people who are able to furnish them. These particulars are to be found in a collection of our resources showing our minerals, with location of mine, analysis of the ore, extent of deposit, and accessibility to lines of transportation; our timber woods, dressed and undressed, with accessibility to transportation; our deposits of building and paving-stones, with extent, location, &c.; a full list of the State—in fact, everything necessary to give as perfect a picture as possible of what we have. This collection, in the hands of a man able to answer intelligently the inquiries made of him, would do work that would last while Virginia lasted. And the persons to arrange the providing of this collection are the managers of our several lines of transportation coming to and going out of Richmond. Will not Colonel B. B. FORD, General WICKHAM, Judge O'NEAL, Mr. FRENCH, Major SCOTT, Colonel DOUGLAS, and Captain ALLEN meet together and make certain the accomplishment of this great work? It will be a great and lasting work.

The accumulation of wealth in this country during the past seven years has been simply enormous. Aside from the rapid growth of our domestic or inter-State trade, our exports during the five years ending June 30 last exceeded our imports by $60,000,000. Prior to 1873 we could not pay our debts abroad with all the merchandise we were able to send, and so were compelled to add to the pile nearly the whole of the precious metals we produced. We not only now keep these precious metals (about $70,000,000 a year) at home, but are getting very largely of the precious metals belonging to other people. All this wealth must find investment somewhere, and its abundance is proved by the greediness with which even 3 and 4 per cent. bonds are taken; the latter steadily commanding a heavy premium. It is plain that men will not put their money into such investments if it can be made to pay better in other ways, and these other ways are to be found in the development of what Virginia is able to furnish. But men must know all about them before they will venture their money.

M. W. HAZLEWOOD is the Republican nominee for a county office in Henrico. Little MARTIN, who do you mean? How is it that you, the leader of the flat-money lunatics, have become the ally of the bloated bondholders, the money power, the gold mania, and the monopolists? Have you lost your faith in the people?

Mr. BROOKS's note settles one question. He desires that the State also shall publish it. The Fauquier resolutions, which we printed some time ago, define Mr. BROOKS's position with clearness.

The Exponent is the name of a weekly paper the publication of which has just been commenced at Culpeper, by ANGELO McDONALD GREEN—names that make us feel as if the young editor were a well-known friend. He has our best wishes for his success. We expect to read valuable articles in the Exponent from the pen of our old friend "J. W. G."

"AMERICA."—We have received a copy of this new foreign journal. It is published in Vienna, and is the first and only paper on America printed in the German language on the other side of the Atlantic. The No. before us has a full-page engraving of General Washington, who appears in his well-known dress of Den Ersten im Kreise; Den Ersten im Frieden; Den Ersten im Herzen seines Volkes.

We have The Southern Clinic for April.

The State Debt.

Richmond, April 21, 1881. Editors Dispatch: I never owned a Virginia bond in my life. May I say a word? What a variety of opinions people hold! All claiming to venerate their mother State, and at the same time to be entirely honest, yet how very oblique do some of these opinions appear to other people who also wish to be honest and who likewise venerate the old Commonwealth.

One says, "Let the debt go"; another, "We won't ask how it is to be settled provided we can accomplish it"; &c.; and yesterday appeared a proposition to "reduce" the debt to $10,000,000 and pay a per cent. on that. &c. In the name of all that seems honest and reasonable, what are we coming to? Would the friend making this suggestion be willing to conduct his business on such principles? Suppose he had sold his crop and taken the purchaser's bond, leaving interest, in payment; and suppose the purchaser, after paying the interest a short time, should complain that he had met with losses, that the debt was troublesome, and that it stood in the way of his carrying out certain plans, and that he intended to "reduce" the debt, and pay a per cent. on that, and the rate of interest two thirds; but of course he was an honest man, and wanted to do perfectly right. Would not the reply be that that nothing but inability to pay, or consent of the creditor, could possibly release him from the full payment of the debt, so far as honesty and probity were concerned? And if he should plead inability to pay, while at the same time he was spending in self-indulgence an amount which would in a short time equal not only the interest, but the bond itself, would our Chesterfield friend believe him?

Are Virginians able to pay the interest? Do not Virginians spend in figures an amount which in three years would wipe out the debt—principal and interest?

True it is that grave political complications exist in our unhappy Commonwealth, and just how to steer the ship of State safely through the breakers without compromising her honor is the question to be solved.

Let us beware lest our posterity, instead of blessing us for transmitting to them what we may call a 2 per cent. "eliminated"

PITTSYLVANIA.

REVIVAL MEETING AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

(Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.) CHATHAM, VA., April 21, 1881. The Baptist evangelist, Rev. J. E. Hutson, of your city, has been the guest of Rev. H. P. Kelly, the pastor of the Baptist church, in a meeting. The meeting closed last Wednesday night with, I learn, some fifty professed conversions. The interest manifested was greater than was ever seen before, and but for the indisposition of Mr. Hutson could have been continued longer.

PETERSBURG.

THE PETERSBURG CONVENTION—A COUNTRY INDUSTRY—BUILDING STOPPED FOR WANT OF BRICKS—THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION—REVENUE RECEIPTS AND TOBACCO EXPORTS.

(Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.) PETERSBURG, April 23, 1881. The Petersburg Convention of the Episcopal Church, which met at Chester on Tuesday last, adjourned yesterday after a pleasant and harmonious session, during which a good deal of business was transacted. The localities were discussed. The Convention embraced within its limits fourteen churches, several of whom, however, were prevented from attending the session at Chester.

Mr. W. H. Clare, vice-president of the Mehrin Lumber Company, is building a shanty at the Meherin-Valley junction, on the Petersburg railroad, and proposes to enlarge into the manufacture of shingles. A temporary check has been placed upon improvements in our city by reason of the scarcity of bricks. Work has been stopped on several large buildings, and contracts of inability to procure bricks, it is said, were forced to stop the manufacture because of the heavy advance in wood.

The first annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association will be held next Tuesday night, when, it is thought, matters will be discussed looking to even a larger usefulness and good than the Association has heretofore accomplished. The plan has already been suggested to purchase a lot and build thereon a handsome and substantial building, with a large hall for public purposes, stores for revenue, and suitable rooms for the use of the Association. To-day 125 new volumes were added to the library of the Association, which now has about 1,000 books in it.

The summer weather of to-day has attracted hundreds of men and boys to the river and the adjacent ponds to try their luck at angling. It has also brought crowds of people to town from the country to make their purchases of business in consequence of the unusually brisk.

The internal-revenue receipts in the Petersburg district for the week ending to-day amounted to $18,749.50. The exports of manufactured tobacco for the week amounted to 24,981 pounds. ROBIN ADAMS.

LYNCHBURG.

THE RECENT SHOOTING AFFAIR—FATAL EXPLOSION—PERSONAL.

(Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.) LYNCHBURG, April 23, 1881. The preliminary examination of C. D. Glass (white), formerly a shooting of the Mayor's Court yesterday morning, and resulted in the accused being sent on to the grand jury for indictment, without bail. Later in the day, however, counsel sued out a writ of habeas corpus before Judge G. C. Brown, and the grand jury was discharged. The case of the accused was decided by the grand jury, and the prisoner in a bond of $2,000, with William W. Larkin surety. The final trial takes place at the May term of the court. Brown is in a dangerous condition. A premature explosion of a charge of dynamite occurred on Thursday afternoon in the vicinity of Bald Eagle dam, about twelve miles above Lynchburg, the accident resulting in the instant killing of a white overseer, J. T. Moore, of Thomas county, and the death of an associate of an associate, named Robert Leary, of Goochland county, this State. Moore was westerly mangled. His remains were brought to this city yesterday and forwarded to his friends in North Carolina.

The venerable Judge James Garland has almost completely recovered from his recent severe indisposition, and most probably will be able to hold the May term of his court. A. Christian, Esq., attorney for the Commonwealth, is also much recovered.

DANVILLE.

WHAT A NORTHERN TRAVELLER THOUGHT—REV. MR. HOLMES CALLED TO SAVANNAH—WORK TO BE COMPLETED ON THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH—SITE CHOSEN—A BIG AVERAGE—RECEIPTS FROM THE JAPANESE PARTIES—ITEMS.

(Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.) DANVILLE, April 23, 1881. Rev. Mr. Palmer, of Stonington, Conn., who has been a Baptist minister for years, and is now collecting information about the South, was here yesterday and the day before. He expressed surprise at the skill and system shown in the factory business. "Why," said he, "that's the way things are done North." But he thought the colored men here labored under many disabilities and disadvantages, not seeming to be able to take in the idea that the colored man was as free in every respect as the white man. Looking at the rows of hands in a factory, "Well," said he, "it is the same thing after all. Employer and hand are only names for master and slave."

Rev. J. E. L. Holmes has been called to the pastorate of the Baptist church at Savannah, Ga. He is a well-known minister here, and is said to have been called to that office by a large number of churches. It is said that some letters have passed between him and Rev. Dr. Ladd, and that the matter may be talked over with him during the session of the Southern Baptist Convention. It may be said that Mr. Holmes has done a great deal of good here, and that it would be a matter of general regret if he should depart to leave the city.

Major C. A. Ballou, city engineer, has been placed at the head of the building committee of the Presbyterian church. Mr. Joseph R. Ladd has been elected as the superintendent of the work of finishing the house. The work will begin on the 25th instant and be pushed to completion. Another grand building that will be.

A lot of land lying on Craighead street, and near to the passenger and the freight depot at Richmond, and the Danville railroad, has been selected as the site of the depot of the Danville and New River railroad, and hands are now at work there preparing the ground for the building.

One of the warehouses reports that its sales for one day of this week amounted to 17,790 pounds for the day, an average of $15.51 was obtained. One party received an average of $26.42 for 6,358 pounds. It is said that in the quantity sold on that day there was about the usual proportion of common tobacco.

The ladies of the Main-Street Methodist church held their tea-party, and the dinner $555, and netted about $450.

Mr. Joel T. Jones, a merchant at Riceville, in this county, fell into a gully while walking about at one of the depots of the Midland road Monday night last, and suffered a very painful dislocation of the wrist and other injuries.

The recent reduction of rates of travel on the Midland road greatly facilitates travelling and business. It is of special benefit to parties who transit business between Danville and Lynchburg, and Danville and Chatham.

FINCASLE.

THE EXAMINATION OF THE PETERS-PAWPAW MEMBER CASE.

(Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.) PETERSBURG, April 23, 1881.

The preliminary examination of Peter, charged with the murder of Pawpa, began here to-day before Justices Lunsford, Kelley, Figgart, and Ammen. A great deal of interest has been excited, and the attendance from all parts of the county has been very large. About eight witnesses were examined, but no new facts of special interest were elicited. The case will be examined to-morrow. The case has been conducted by Commonwealth Attorney Haden for the prosecution and the Messrs. Glasgow for the defence. X.
